GARVAN

Faenza-based Garvan produces a range of in-wall speakers available in an almost limitless combination of finishes, colours and sizes to provide absolute flexibility and customisation for use in the most exacting of installations.

The coaxial designed speakers come with either round or square grilles, in any colour of fabric or perforated metal and are designed to be absolutely flush with the wall, with no flange or bevel edge. Similar grilles are available for the range of in-wall two-way models and all are also available with frame surrounds in any colour, stainless steel or polished steel and with rounded or square corners. The flexibility and adaptability of the speakers to their environment and the surrounding decor is without equal in the world of architectural speakers. Installation in stud or block-work walls is accommodated through dedicated mounting frames and back-boxes specially designed for each application.

Available from The Multi-Room Company, Garvan represents an excellent solution for designers and demanding end-users alike. The acoustic performance of the speakers will find many fans and provided consumers with a stunning solution they will be proud to show-off... audibly at least.
